

Written by the author of "All About Christmas" and "Give me a Child when he is young." this is no Guide book, to be dipped into like a dictionary or an encyclopedia, but a Journey through Time that unfolds like a novel or a good detective story. Caesars, popes, artists, composers – you™ll meet them all, not so much in what is said about them, as in what they reveal about themselves in their letters, diaries and notebooks. Cities, also – with a major focus on Rome, Florence and Venice, but with individual chapters on Pompeii, Ravenna, Assisi, etc. If you™ve been to Italy, or plan to go – or if you would love to – read all about it – you will find this book fresh, informative and eminently readable. Dr. Ian Guthridge is the author of more than six other books on history, religion and society. He took his doctorate in Rome, then lived and lectured there for ten years and returned nearly every year for another ten. He writes from the inside outwards, rather than as an outsider looking in.
